After declaring that "this section had literally to begin at the bottom in 1865," that papers cite the fact that the value of the manufactured products of the South was only $190.000,000 in 1860, while in 1892 it had reached the enormous magnitude of $730,000,000. In the face of this wonderful achievement, what become of the Bourbon contention that a pro-tective tariff is sectional and class legislation? The fact that within thirty years the South has been wasted by fire and sword and yet attained a degree of prosperity unparalleled in its caree is an overwhelming answer to Free-trade nonsense such to the Atlanta Jour nal is accusstomed to indulge in.

HORROR IN THE DARK

Three huge beasts, Parnell, Romeo and Commodore, were led into the enge by Thieman preparatory to Boone's entrance. Suddenly the letter lights went out.

I was a short interval of silence, when suddenly a shrick of agony came from the eage. It was followed by war of enraged lions, the crunching of their terrible jaws and the groans of the man in the eage. The large crowd of spectators became panic stricken and stated for the doors. Women shridate, and the strick of the doors women shridate, and the strick of the st who had retained their presence of mind.

Finally lanteras were brought and there in the cage lay Thieman with three lions clawing and munching his prostrate form. Col. Boone seized an iron bar and entered the enge. With shouts and blows he drove the enge. With shouts and blows he drove the enge with shouts and blows he drove the current was an exhibition of rare bravery and the big-crowd cheered the gailant colonel. Thieman was taken to the receiving hospital, where his wounds, forty-three in number, were examined. By one blow from a lion's paw he had been scalped to the control of the colonel that the colonel the colonel that the colonel that how well trained, will attack a man in the dark."

By some oversight the lanterns were not in their usual piace last night and it was some time before they could be used to be a some some dealy of the situation the cage door became stuck and there was some delay in opening it when Boone entered the cage to rescue Thieman. After Thieman had been removed to the hospital the people left the arena, as they had seen enough of wild animals for one night and the performance was discontinued. The doctors think there is a possibility of Thieman's recovery unless blood poisoning ensues.

Mr. Lewis was a member of the British Parliament, and his book became so popular in England a hundred years ago that it gained for him the title of "Monk Lewis."

It is a fine piece of classic con-position, and after being out of print for many years it has bee republished from the origina text.

It is far superior to "Maria Monk" and books of that char-acter.
